Strange Lands & Desert Streams

In this very difficult past year and a half, I finally got around to reading a book that's been on my wish list for a while: Edward Abbey's Desert Solitaire. In it, he recounts his time living and working in the Arches National Monument in Utah's desert southeast in the late 1950's. Part memoir, part meditation, Abbey unflinchingly describes both a place and a time of harsh circumstance, isolation and beauty – and the lessons he learned. Seemed about right for these Covid days. A frequent theme in his writing: the sudden appearance of water in the desert – sometimes a trickle, sometimes a torrent. But enough to sustain life.

Two Old Testament passages have also accompanied me much of this past wilderness year. The first comes from the Psalms: "How shall we sing the Lord's song in a strange land?" (Psalm 137: 4; KJV) Yearning for a return to home – from the wilderness of their Babylonian captivity – the Israelites hung up their harps, sat down and wept as they "remembered Zion." (vs. 1) How are we to worship in these strange times?

The other passage comes from book of Isaiah: "Do not remember the former things, or consider the things of old. I am about to do a new thing; now it springs forth, do you not perceive it? I will make a way in the wilderness and rivers in the desert." (Isaiah 43: 18-19; NRSV) One of the most interesting words in this extraordinary, hope-filled chapter? "Perceive." It requires me to be attentive – not easy in the midst of all the frightening, distracting noise. What streams are beginning to flow in the midst of our current deserts?

As we begin to emerge from the wilderness of these many challenging months, an opportunity to say thank you: to the worship tech team who inventively and steadfastly supported – and continue to support – our faith community when worshiping at home; to our musicians – our cantors and instrumentalists – who tended the Lord's song while we wandered through this strange land; to the one or two parishioners who regularly reached out to members of the worship team with words of support and gratitude.

We are gathering again; the song is returning to the people. Streams are beginning to flow once more. What are we to perceive?

In peace, Scott Hafso

Our Savior Office Hours Resume 10:00am — 2:00pm

Beginning in July, as COVID restrictions wind down and the schools are on break for the summer, regular church office hours will resume between 10:00 am and 2:00 pm, Monday through Friday, in addition to telecommuting.

Hours may vary depending on illness and staff scheduled vacations. Need to come by the office earlier or later? Staff are always available at other times during the business day by appointment.

Our Savior Church Council

From the Council President

It was a year full of changes at Our Savior Lutheran Church. We nearly completed our transition with Pastor Jim Kruze. Then our church life took an unexpected turn. Our call committee got stuck preparing to interview new candidates. The "Covid" shutdown decreased membership and finances. Did we have enough funds to hire a full time pastor. We realized we needed an older, experienced pastor (higher paid) than we had before. There were questions about our mission and what we would look like after the Covid crises ended. The call committee and the church council had a joint "Zoom" meeting with Pastor Andy Yee, the assistant to the Bishop of our NW Synod.

Enter Pastor John Vaswig. Pastor Yee knew Shepherd of The Hills needed to make some hard decisions after losing their pastor. We asked him if SHLC might be interested in joining together to make a new church. He said there was an interest on their part and he had a transition pastor who had experience in the process. So much appreciated Pastor Kruze left and Pastor Vagwig entered. I'm sure churches have had two different transition pastors before, but it's got to be unusual. Our council felt it was important to listen to the Holy Spirit and try to follow this new direction.

Pastor Jim had the council and call committee read and reflect on the book, "Quietly Courageous, Leading the Church in a Changing World" by Gil Rendle. It was a very difficult book to read. He laid out the research that church community was returning to the normal church attendance prior to the 1940's. We could no longer live on the model of "how we used to do it." Our previous pastor, Wes Telyea, was trying to tell us this but we weren't ready to listen. He wasn't using the Rendle book but using many of the numbers the church was seeing nationwide. Pastor Vaswig read the book and is in full agreement, too. Our church leadership is listening now.

The finance committee was reading another book, "The Coming Revolution in Church Economics, Why Tithes and Offerings Are No Longer Enough, and what you can do about it" by Mark Deymaz. The finance committee recommended we form a group to look at our resources, our property and building. The Strategic Site Planning Committee began work with Pastor Kruze to look into how we could utilize our resources to better fund the church. There have been so many stories in the Seattle Times about churches closing. A common thread is how these churches were doing so many things for our community but would no longer be able to. Our leadership has no interest in being one of those has-been institutions.

The first Bible Study done with Pastor John was The Letter of Paul to the Galatians. Paraphrasing from my Harper Collins Study Bible, it's about Paul's letter to the Galatians as the early Christians struggled to define their mission and identity. I've been so impressed with the many leaders of this church. We have done our best to listen to where God is guiding us. There have been bumps on the way and I'm sure more to come. We are a community which cares about each other and wishes to follow the two greatest commandments of loving God and loving our neighbor.

Keep the leadership in your prayers,

Chuck Bachman

No quilting experience? Don't know how to sew? No problem! Mission Quilters welcomes new members. It's not necessary to know how to sew or quilt to participate.

Join us on Thursday mornings 9:30 am until 12:00 noon in the fellowship hall, and assist us in making quilts. We make simple patchwork quilts that are donated to people in need.

Quilts made by OSLC Mission Quilters are donated to Lutheran World Relief, and are then sent all over the world, frequently to countries following natural disasters such as earthquakes and hurricanes. Quilts are also given to OSLC graduating seniors, to Compass Housing Alliance, and our neighbors at the Issaquah Nursing & Rehabilitation Center.

The group welcomes donations of fabric (preferably cotton) and clean used sheets. Donations to help with the cost of shipping and to buy supplies are also greatly appreciated.

Northwest Washington Synod

From the Bishop:

For freedom Christ has set us free. Stand firm, therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery. Galatians 5:1

What does freedom mean to you? In this month that we in the United States celebrate Independence Day with fireworks and barbecues (yay for vaccines – we can have barbecues again!), what is freedom?

Well ... first let's consider what freedom is NOT. Freedom is NOT enormous sums of money, power, privilege, assets, stocks and bonds, cars, clothes, or degrees. Freedom is NOT being able to do anything you want without worrying how your actions might affect another. Freedom is NOT hedonism or casual cruelty. Freedom is NOT the ability to yell at someone either in person or online. Freedom is NOT to be taken lightly.

Unfortunately, we have conflated freedom with selfishness. We have decided freedom means we don't have to worry about our behavior or words. We have decided that we no longer need to be civil or caring or understanding of another's viewpoint or worldview or interest. In this synod, I am concerned at the rancor I am hearing, the level of uncivil discourse, and the inability to listen to people from different sides of different issues.

So ... what IS freedom?

Martin Luther writes in The Freedom of a Christian that through Christ, we are set free from sin into new life. He writes:

From faith flow forth love and joy in the Lord, and from love a cheerful, willing, free spirit, disposed to serve our neighbor voluntarily, without taking any account of gratitude or ingratitude, praise or blame, gain or loss. Its object is not to lay [others] under obligations, nor does it distinguish between friends and enemies, or look to gratitude or ingratitude, but most freely and willingly spends itself and its goods, whether it loses them through ingratitude, or gains good will.

Freedom described in this way sounds amazing. But we know that it isn't that simple. We all know that even as baptized children of God, even as people assured that we are saved through Jesus Christ, even as people who revel in freedom – we know that we are not always cheerful and willing, disposed to serve our neighbor voluntarily. We know that the freedom we have been given through Jesus is sometimes squandered because of greed, racism, homophobia, sexism, nationalism, individualism, pride, and so much more. Quite simply, sin. We think that we are free and yet we are choosing death over abundant life.

And yet ... what a gift we have been given! For when we live fully into our baptisms, we are called into community with God and with one another. We are called into caring for one another. We are called to listen, love, and serve others – even those we might not particularly like. God calls us away from selfish behavior and into freedom to commit ourselves fully to each other. As Paul writes in Galatians 6:2: "Bear one another's burdens, and in this way you will fulfill the law of Christ." As baptized children of God and as the body of Christ in this world, we are called to the freedom of Christ. And this means we are called to a life not only for ourselves, but to die to ourselves and live truly in the freedom of bearing one another's burdens.

As a proud American, I love the Fourth of July. As a person following Jesus, I know that freedom means more than waving a flag or wearing the colors of red, white, and blue. As Martin Luther writes in his treatise On Christian Freedom, "A Christian is the most free lord of all, and subject to none; a Christian is the most dutiful servant of all, and subject to everyone."

May freedom in Christ reign. May the love of Christ be with you and all that you encounter.

²²He said to his disciples, "Therefore I tell you, do not worry about your life, what you will eat, or about your body, what you will wear. ²³For life is more than food, and the body more than clothing. ²⁴Consider the ravens: they neither sow nor reap, they have neither storehouse nor barn, and yet God feeds them. Of how much more value are you than the birds! ²⁵And can any of you by worrying add a single hour to your span of life? ²⁶If then you are not able to do so small a thing as that, why do you worry about the rest? ²⁷Consider the lilies, how they grow: they neither toil nor spin yet I tell you, even Solomon in all his glory was not clothed like one of these. ²⁸But if God so clothes the grass of the field, which is alive today and tomorrow is thrown into the oven, how much more will he clothe you — you of little faith! ²⁹And do not keep striving for what you are to eat and what you are to drink, and do not keep worrying. ³⁰For it is the nations of the world that strive after all these things, and your Father knows that you need them. ³¹Instead, strive for his kingdom, and these things will be given to you as well. ³²Do not be afraid, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. ³³Sell your possessions, and give alms. Make purses for yourselves that do not wear out, an unfailing treasure in heaven, where no thief comes near and no moth destroys. ³⁴For where your treasure is, there your heart will be also. (Luke 12:22-34)

Our lives give us plenty to worry about. Sometimes we worry about whether we have enough, or whether there will be enough to get us through to the next paycheck. Other times we worry about whether we are good enough, whether we measure up, whether we are valued by others. We worry about our children -- about their future, about their wellbeing -- no matter their age. We worry about our country, our church, where we are headed. In this Scripture, Jesus gives us the antidote to our worry. He assures us that we are of great value to God. If God values us, we can be assured that we measure up. If God values us, we needn't worry whether other people do. And because God values us, God will provide us with everything we need. We don't need to worry about whether we will have enough. Jesus encourages us not to worry, reminding us that we can't add a single hour to our life by doing so. Every minute we spend worrying about the future or dwelling on the past is a minute we miss living our lives in the here and now. Jesus encourages us to give our worries to God, and instead invest our time and energy in striving for God's kingdom. When we do this, we can put our worries aside, because we know God is in charge and we aren't. This is the greatest comfort of all.
